

Monkey Cable swings into action

Debut HDMI ranges from new British cable maker on sale now

Formed with the aim of providing a straightforward selection of superior cables for hi-fi, home cinema, gaming system, and television users, Hampshire-based Monkey Cable's debut HDMI ranges are available in both HDMI versions 1.3 and 1.4. And all come with the Monkey Lifetime Guarantee.

Fully equipped for the latest technology – such as 3D-compatible TVs and Blu-ray players, as well as next-generation Xbox and PlayStation – Monkey Cable HDMI 1.4 delivers High Speed HDMI with 3D support. The cables are also Ethernet-armed, so support home network integration. Add the Connoisseur range's 2160P capability and you have a cable family ready-and-waiting for whatever you plug them into.

Please see below for summaries of the three HDMI models. Detailed specifications are available at www.monkeycable.com.

Concept

Monkey Cable's entry-level range offers massive improvements on the dreaded 'freebie' leads. Using oxygen-free copper conductors throughout, this cable features 24ct gold-plated connection pins and brings full support for DTS-HD Master Audio and Dolby TrueHD Audio for lossless surround sound.

Clarity

The mid-range model, Clarity is designed to excel now and in the future. For resolutions up to 1440p and beyond, Clarity is equipped for the challenges posed by the likes of 100in screens. At these larger screen sizes video imperfections can be more apparent, and the need for data integrity increases. Clarity has been designed for optimum data reliability with the HDMI 1.3 handling Full HD up to 1440p, while the 1.4 cable manages a staggering 2160p with Deep Colour.

Connoisseur

Sitting at the top of Monkey's HDMI tree, this beautifully built cable is designed specifically for high-end sources and display equipment. Stunning to look at, Connoisseur is an equally remarkable performer. The 1.3 and 1.4 versions support resolutions up to 1600p and 2160p respectively – as well as transfer speeds now well beyond 10.2Gbps. This precision engineered lead enhances any system.

George Parnell of Monkey Cable said, "In countless home entertainment systems the quality of the cables is a frequently overlooked aspect. We are convinced that cables are one of the best value system upgrades, so we aim to change this situation. Our line-up delivers terrific performance, offers great value, and we hope our easy to understand approach will appeal to specialist and non-specialist buyers alike."

Following the HDMI range, Monkey will also launch products in the below categories:
